Mrs. J. C. Keller and Mrs. Lasseter will entertain a number of friends at the home of the former, tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. T. Fred Brown was the hostess at a very pleasant reception Tuesday afternoon.

Two dancing parties are scheduled for Friday night. One at Schmidt's Villa and the other at the Grand Atlantic.

COLONIAL TEA.

The Colonial Tea given Tuesday afternoon by the ladies of the Congregational Church, was a success, and the sum of $275 was cleared. Some of the ladies of the entertaining committee were attired in Martha Washington costumes, and the halls were prettily decorated in flags and bunting. Mrs. Moore demonstrated the qualities of Whitehouse coffee. Mrs. Frank Peck was chairman of the fancy table, Mrs. Knox, chairman of the apron table; Miss May Jolly and Miss Lillian Thompson had

MEETING OF LOCAL MILITIA.

Captain Smith Notifies Company of His Pending Resignation.—Major Parkinson Talks to Company.

A meeting of the local militia was held Tuesday night, with a fair attendance.

The principal business to come up at the meeting was the notification by Captain Charles L. Smith, of his resignation. In a new remarks, he expressed his regret on being compelled to tender his resignation, and he said that his relations with the company had been very pleasant. His resignation has been forwarded to Tallahassee, and it will be about two weeks before he receives his discharge papers.

Major John B. Parkinson was in attendance and he gave the members of the company some valuable hints regarding target practice.

There are several vacancies in the ranks of the Halifax Rifles, and those wishing to enlist will find it a very good time to apply for membership.

8,000 MILES TO REPAIR AN AUTO

The Experience of Dr. French From New York to Bogota, Republic of Colombia, South America.

This being a stationary battery it gave me more or less trouble by running over and losing current and short circuiting, but I made out to test the car with it, but could not get the power out of it that I was used to in the States, being at an altitude of 9,000 feet, so I began preparations to put on compression plates, which I did after a time.

August third the new Model C car came, arriving in very good shape, it being brought up from the Magdalena on bull carts.

On Sunday, Aug. 13th, we started for Tunja, 100 miles to the north of Bogota in the Model A, but out about 18 miles the compression plate worked loose and we returned and took the Model C, which made the trip in fine shape.

The roads part of the way were very muddy, in one place being so deep that I could not see the hubs, but luckily the mud was thin with a good hard bottom. In many places the bridges were down and we had to ford streams that looked as though they would swallow us up. These bridges were destroyed during the last revolution when both sides destroyed everything they came in contact with, even the road bed, which was cut in the mountain side, or the fills between the hills. For twenty miles there was not a sign of a bridge and one can imagine what I had to contend with. In places the banks were a clean cut with a four foot drop and I had to let the machine down with a rope several times. I had at least ten Indians on the lead, but we got through to our destination, which in all probability is the oldest city in South America.

All the cities in these old countries are built about a plaza and on one side of this plaza you are sure to find an old cathedral and on the top of these old rock buildings are a number of bells of various sizes which are rung several times a day and on feast days every few moments. These feast days are very numerous, often three a week, and it was very hard to obtain help on one of

AN EXCITING ACCIDENT.

Little Edmund Swift Thrown From His Bicycle and Injured.—Frightened by Auto, Ran Into Bus.

Edmund Swift, a boy seven or eight years of age, ran into a bus in front of Schmidt's Villa Tuesday afternoon, and was thrown from his wheel and severely but not seriously hurt. The extent of his injuries was a badly cut ear. It is also thought that his collar bone is broken. The little fellow was riding at a rapid rate north on Beach Street, while a bus belonging to Randall & Pelletier was making a turn, and at the same time an automobile was coming in the rear. The boy heard the noise and became confused. He struck one of the front wheels and was thrown with great violence to the ground. He was carried into Schmidt's Villa and a physician summoned. Later he was taken to the home of his parents on North Beach Street.

these days, as every one is good and goes to church, and as soon as church is over it is hurrah, boys, for the bull fight, a description of which will follow later.

This city is built upon a mountain's top and is very inaccessible, only two roads leading to or from it. These roads are protected by narrow bridges with high side walls. Being above the timber line, and not a tree in sight, looked very odd, fuel of all kinds being brought upon the backs of mules or Indian women. Often the woman will have the larger load. Provisions are also brought in the same manner. Farming is carried on in a very crude and ancient manner—plowing with bulls and a crooked stick; harvesting with a sickle; threshing upon the earthen floors with beasts, as in Christ's time, the cereals being ground in the same old fashioned ways.

I did not see but one stove in Colombia, the natives using the charcoal hearth in its place. The mineral wealth of Colombia is very extensive. Gold, silver and copper take the lead. Coal and petroleum are found in all sections. In places, petroleum springs flow out of the mountain sides into ponds from which the natives procure it for illuminating purposes.

WHAT IS OUR POPULATION?

State Census is Very Incomplete and Practically Worthless.—Suggested that City Take Census.

As to what the population of Daytona is can only be guessed. The State enumerator took the census last summer and a copy of his report has been filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court at Deland, but a perusal of the report imports practically no information as to the correct population of Daytona. For the Daytona precinct, which includes more than the corporate limits, it shows that there are 681 male persons over the age of twenty-one. This includes all colors, and as stated above includes territory outside the corporation. The same territory, according to this report, has 390 school children enrolled.

It has been suggested that the city take a census. The police force could do it without much cost, or an enumerator could be hired at a very nominal cost.

The Elks of Daytona are very desirous of having a lodge established, but before it can be done the Supreme Lodge must be satisfied that the city has a population of 5,000. It is quite probable that the local Elks would bear part of the expense of enumeration, should the City Council see fit to take the matter up.

J. B. Consey, representing The Savannah Grocery Company, is in the city on business.

Master Kenneth Brokaw celebrated his fifth birthday, Tuesday, by having a family party at Mill's Cafe.

The houseboat owned by H. D. Flu-hart, and which is used for landscape painting, was moved Tuesday afternoon from the Halifax River to a lot on Ridgewood Avenue. The job was a very burdensome one and it occupied the attention of some six or eight men and a pair of mules the entire afternoon.

A Poem for Today

OLD GRIMES

By Albert Gorton Greene

ALBERT GORTON GREENE, author and jurist, was born in Providence, R. I., Feb. 10, 1862, and died in Cleveland, O., Jan. 3, 1906. He was a lawyer by profession, but a scholar by natural choice, and took a deep interest in the intellectual development of his native state. The private library of Judge Greene, now in Brown University, contained 2000 volumes. "Old Grimes" is the best known of his poems.

Old Grimes is dead, that good old man.
We never shall see him more.
He used to wear a long black coat,
All buttoned down before.

His heart was open as the day,
His feelings all were true,
His hair was some inclined to gray;
He wore it in a cue.

Whenever he heard the voice of pain
His breast with pity burned,
The large round head upon his cane
From ivory was turned.

Kind words he ever had for all;
He knew no base design.
His eyes were dark and rather small;
His nose was aquiline.

He lived at peace with all mankind;
In friendship he was true,
His coat had pocket holes behind;
His pantaloons were blue.

Unharm'd, the sin which earth poison'd
He passed securely o'er—
And never wore a pair of boots
For thirty years or more.

But good old Grimes is now at rest,
Nor fears misfortune's frown.
He wore a double breasted vest—
The stripes ran up and down.

He modest merit sought to find
And pay it its desert.
He had no malice in his mind,
No ruffles on his shirt.

His neighbors he did not abuse—
Was so-fable and gay.
He wore large buckles on his shoes
And changed them every day.

His knowledge, hid from public gaze,
He did not bring to view,
Nor make a noise town meeting days,
As many people do.

His worldly goods he never threw
In trust to fortune's chances,
But lived (as all his brothers do)
In easy circumstances.

Thus undisturbed by anxious cares
His peaceful moments ran,
And everybody said he was A fine old gentleman.

A Poem for Today

PULASKI'S BANNER

By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

THIS poem was written in 1825 and read at the consecration of Pulaski's banner, which is preserved in the cabinet of the Maryland Historical society in Baltimore. The banner is of double crimson silk and intended to be carried on a lance. It was made for the Polish nobleman, Count Pulaski, serving in the cause of American independence. When Lafayette lay sick in Bethlehem, Pa., he was visited by Pulaski, who ordered the banner of the Moravian sisters, the latter being famous for the needlework. Pulaski received a mortal wound at the siege of Savannah, Ga., and died in one of the vessels of the fleet on its way north and was buried at sea.

WHEN the dying flame of day Through the channel shot its ray,
Far the glimmering tapers shed

Faint light on the crowded hall,
And the censor burning swam Where, before the altar, hung
The crimson banner that with prayer
Had been consecrated there.
And the noble hymn was heard
The while,
Sung low in the dim, mysterious aisle:

"Take thy banner, May it wave
Proudly o'er the good and brave
When the battle's distant wall
Breaks the Sabbath of our vale,
When the chieftain's muffled thrills
To the hearts of these lone hills,
When the spear in chaffet shakes
And the strong lance shivering breaks.

"Take thy banner, and beneath
The battle cloud's encircling wreath
Guard it till our homes are free!
Guard it! God will prosper thee.

In the dark and trying hour,
In the breaking forth of power,
In the rush of steeds and men,
His right hand will shield thee then.

"Take thy banner! But when night
Closes round the ghastly fight,
If the vanquished warrior bow,
Spurn him! By our holy vow,
By our prayers and many tears,
By the mercy that endears, Spurn him! His love hath shared, Spurn him, as thou wouldst be spared!

"Take thy banner, and if e'er
Thou shouldst press the soldier's bier
And the muffled drum should beat
To the tread of mournful feet,
Then this crimson flag shall be Martial cloak and shroud for thee."

The warrior took that banner proud,
And it was his martial cloak and shroud!

Two of His Habits.
"Two things the average man does at every opportunity from mere force of habit," said the observing woman.
"One is to set his watch every time he passes a standard timepiece, and the other it isn't very delicate, but it's a fact—to expectorate every time he passes a public cuspidor. You watch a man inadvertently pass a timepiece.
He always catches himself in time, goes back, compares his watch, and ten minutes later you'll see him absently doing the same thing farther down the street. To prove the other fact you need only stand five minutes within sight of a cuspidor in one of the big railway stations and watch man after man absently expectorate in passage, merely in response to the suggestion of the cuspidor."

"These two masculine habits about equalize a woman's invertebrate habit of glancing at every mirror she passes."— Philadelphia Bulletin.

Thackeray's Portrait.
The following story furnishes an example of the manner in which Thackeray did not hesitate to treat what he considered vanity in others. After long pleading his family induced the famous novelist to sit for his portrait, and Lawrence, the painter, gladly undertook the task. Soon after the picture was completed Thackeray chanced to be dining at his club when a pompous officer of the guards stopped beside the table and said:

"Haw, Thackeray, old boy, I hear Lawrence has been painting yer portrait!"

"So he has," was the reply.

"Full length?"

"No; full length portraits are for soldiers, that we may see their spurs, but the other end of the man is the principal thing with authors," said Thackeray.

His Own Chair.
"Beg pardon," said the garrulous passenger, "but I think I heard you addressed as professor. Might I inquire what chair you hold?"

"The chair right next to the door," answered the professor. "I run a shop of my own."

MAYOR GREENE'S FIRST CASE.

New Mayor Dispenses Justice.—Fines
Colored Boy for Using Fire Arms
Within the City Limits.

Mayor Eugene W. Greene dispensed justice this morning for the first time since taking hold of the reins of the city administration. The case that came up for his attention was that of William Westley, a colored youth, charged with using fire arms within the city limits.
Westley was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Leon Despland, who claimed that the negro was carelessly shooting at robins in the western section of the city. Mr. Despland warned the boy to stop, but he continued to shoot. Mayor Greene fined the boy $3 and costs and gave him a lecture. He said he would not be so lenient with others brought before him on a similar charge. The boy paid the fine and went on his way rejoicing.

Jolly Fishing Party.

A jolly fishing party accepted the hospitality of Captain Landy, who on Tuesday morning, took the party down to Spruce creek for a days sport, with his staunch little launch the "Three Feathers." The party consisted of Commodore Stuenkel, who commanded the expedition, Judge Kenneth Sutherland, who looked after the commissary department, J. L. Kirsch, Capt. W. J. Kaiser, P. Geo. Scheppert and H. D. Cochrane, all of Brooklyn and Coney Island.

The party made a very successful catch, in fact they brought home seventy-four fine fish.

The fish were very accommodating, for Comrade Kirsch reported catching two on one hook. He thinks they were twins and did not want to be separated even in death.

The "boys" had a fine time and are loud in their praise of Florida as a sportsman's paradise.

DAYTONA AND ITS ATTRACTIONS.

DAYTONA is situated upon the west bank of the Halifax River at its fairest expanse and midway between its source at Bulow Bay and its outlet at Mosquito Inlet. It is in latitude 28, seventy-four miles from St. Augustine and one mile from the Atlantic Ocean, and is acknowledged to be without a rival for beauty among the villages of the South. Its site is upon what is known as high hammock land that was crowned by nature with a most royal growth of majestic forest trees, and among these trees is the town of today, with its beautiful cottages and well-graded walks and streets. The result is that all along the wide avenues that intersect the town are lordly live and water oaks and hickories, many of them draped with graceful festoons of the gray Spanish moss, that overarch the street and walks, and among these are interspersed tall tropical palmettos, glossy-leaved magnolias, fragrant bays and coral-berried holly, and many other varieties, while in many places the wild grape, the trumpet vine and the ampelepos climb and cling among the branches forming shady bowers and adding grace and beauty.

The town lies parallel with the Halifax River, and extends for nearly two miles along the shore. This river is the delight of the angler and the yachtsman and forms one of the town's greatest attractions.

The main avenues that run parallel with or intersect the river are all 100 feet wide, except Beach street, which is about sixty-five feet, but has a half-mile of open, beautiful water abutting upon its eastern side, where the salt waves ebb and flow and along and across which comes the cooling, invigorating and health-giving breezes from off the wide Atlantic, which temper and render the Halifax climate one of the most perfect in the world. Daytona has many miles of well-graded, marled and shelled roads and streets, rendering it the

and added to these, but a mile away, are thirty miles of smooth, hard beach, that affords an unrivalled course for long-distance cycling and driving on automobile racing. No town of equal size, North or South, numbers so many wheelmen, and cycling is a favorite pastime with the tourists summer and winter.

The Beautiful Cottages
that have been erected during the past years and are being built are rendering Daytona as famous for its fine homes as for its beautiful river, trees and avenues, and they are adding yearly to its attractions.

Not the least of these attractions to those securing homes in the South and ranking second only to health, richness and perfection of climate, is the fact that its population is chiefly composed of cultivated and intelligent people, accustomed to the refinement of home and social life. Added to these features are good churches, good public and private schools, stores, hotels, laundry, meat markets, novelties, an opera house, electric light for street and house illumination, a good telephone system, ice factory, Lily Water Works, and hot and cold baths, etc., and everything else can be procured that is necessary to make life comfortable. An important feature in the healthfulness of this town is the

which is derived from numerous flowing wells, of which there are probably 300 in the corporate limits. This flow is secured by boring wells to the depth of from 80 to 120 feet, passing through several strata of rock, and this depth assures purity from all surface contamination. The water is slightly impregnated with magnesian and iron, and holds sulphur in the shape of gas, which soon passes away.

The Population of Daytona proper is about 1,800. Added to this is a suburban population on main shore and peninsula of about 1,000 at Kingston, Blake, Old Seabreeze or Goodall, Seabreeze and Silver Beach, which are properly a part of the town and population.

Daytona Beach
lies one mile east of the town. It is approached by three good bridges over the river and well-graded avenues, and is the principal summer resort south of St. Augustine. It has more tourists during the summer than all other places south of that city combined, and is also becoming a favorite winter resort. The beach is wide, firm and smooth, by many considered the finest in the world, and the surf bathing is safe and excellent summer and winter. People who have tried Northern and Western summer resorts declare that there are none so perfect as Daytona Beach.

Automobile Race Meet.
The Florida East Coast Automobile Association conducts an annual race meet on the beach, which has now a universal reputation as the greatest automobile race course in the world. The Daytona-Ormond Beach is hard as macadam, and an ideal stretch of thirty or more miles without a break makes it the natural racing ground for America.

At low tide the beach is bare for 300 feet and neither carriage wheel, bicycle or pedestrian can make a hardly visible imprint on the smooth and well-packed sand. It is no uncommon sight to see well-timed bicyclists speeding with the velocity of the wind before a stiff breeze along the smooth beach, thus affording the most exhilarating sport known to man. Re-rides these, miles of hard-shelled palm-lined boulevards bring the lovers of the wheel and vehicles into direct touch with the mainland over the broad bridges which span the splendid Halifax River.

The beach from the sandy bluffs to the lowest point at ebbside, measures about 500 feet, and the average depth of the surf measures about two feet. A continuous gentle swell rolls in from the ocean from one to two feet in depth under normal conditions, making the beach an attractive and absolutely safe place for surf-bathing. Here the infant as well as the gray-haired veteran of many summers, can safely enjoy the luxury of a bath throughout the larger part of the year while the strong and expert swimmer can venture out further to test his strength and skill in battling with the inexhaustible powers of the mighty ocean.

The Peninsula
lying between river and ocean is one half mile wide, and is being rapidly improved, and there are many fine cottages and several good hotels, at present about two ocean piers, beautiful villas and a large casino.

A Remarkable Feature

at Daytona has been the yearly improvement in the style and value of the buildings that are being erected on the beach. Men of capital in North and West have become awakened to its advantages for winter residences, and valuable lots are being purchased and costly houses, beautiful in design and finish, are being erected, and beautiful homes, the abode of wealth and culture are multiplying.

Seabreeze (City Beautiful) and Goodall are settlements on the Ocean side of the peninsula across the Halifax River from Daytona. At the foot of Ocean Boulevard Seabreeze, a pier reaches 600 feet across the beach into the swelling surf of the ocean. This pier is a favorite resort of those who delight in the sport of fishing. The surf here abounds in trout, pompano, yellowtail, cavalle, whiting, drum, bluefish and many other varieties of edible fish. During the fall season the famous sea bass affords a sport, and it has been no uncommon occurrence to land a thousand pound fish in an afternoon. Individuals of them ranging from fifteen to thirty-five pounds in weight are only does the ocean offer this splendid sport but the Halifax River, only half a mile back of the ocean, is equally famous for its fine fishing, and the varieties that abound in the river are present in the river.

Hunting and fishing good. Experienced guides and dogs may be had at reasonable prices.
